

GlyTech, Inc. Enters into Joint Agreement with FRONTEO, Inc. to Explore Indications for Glyco-Somatostatin (GT-02037) using Drug Discovery AI Factory

GlyTech, Inc. (Head office: Kyoto City, Kyoto; President & CEO: Hiroaki Asai) and FRONTEO, Inc. (Head office: Minato-ku, Tokyo; President & Representative Director: Masahiro Morimoto) have entered into a joint agreement to discover new target molecule candidates and indications using FRONTEO's AI-based drug discovery support service "Drug Discovery AI Factory" (DDAIF).

FRONTEO is advancing proof-of-concept (PoC) research with domestic pharmaceutical companies and biotech ventures. This agreement is part of those efforts and will be implemented in the field of glycosylation-based drug discovery research.

■ Outline of the Agreement

FRONTEO possesses proprietary natural language processing technology that utilizes its self-developed AI "KIBIT" to extract potential correlations between diseases and target molecules not documented in known academic literature. Its AI-based drug discovery support service "DDAIF" is used by pharmaceutical companies and research institutions to assist in identifying novel target molecule candidates and analyzing disease mechanisms during drug discovery research.

This agreement aims to create new value in glycan technology, primarily by expanding the indications for glyco-somatostatin (GT-02037). Through the synergistic combination of both companies' technologies and expertise, we seek to contribute to the development of new pharmaceuticals and the advancement of healthcare, including addressing unmet medical needs.
